A SEMINAR BASED ON “VEDIC MATHEMATICS”
UNDER THE DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS
(SECOND SESSION FOR THE ACADEMIC YEAR 2016-17)

27th July 2016

Prof. Supriya Salvee

Vedic mathematics is the name given to the ancient system of Indian Mathematics which was rediscovered from the Vedas between 1911 and 1918 by Sri Bharati Tirthaji (1884-1960). According to his research all of mathematics is based on Sixteen Sutras, or word-formulae. For example, 'vertically and crosswise' is one of these sutras. These formulae describe the way the mind naturally works and are therefore a great help in directing the student to the appropriate method of solution.

Perhaps the most striking feature of the Vedic system is its coherence. Instead of a hotch-potch of unrelated techniques, the whole system is beautifully interrelated and unified: the general multiplication method, for example, is easily reversed to allow one-line divisions and the simple squaring method can be reversed to give one-line square roots. And these are all easily understood. This unifying quality is very satisfying, it makes mathematics easy and enjoyable and encourages innovation.

In the Vedic system 'difficult' problems or huge sums can often be solved immediately by the Vedic method. These striking and beautiful methods are just a part of a complete system of mathematics which is far more systematic than the modern 'system'. Vedic mathematics manifests the coherent and unified structure of mathematics and the methods are complementary, direct and easy.

Interest in the Vedic system is growing in education where mathematics teachers are looking for something better and finding the Vedic system is the answer. Research is being carried out in many areas including the effects of learning Vedic math on children; developing new, powerful but easy applications of the Vedic sutras in geometry, calculus, computing etc.

Considering the importance of Vedic mathematics in today's world and its application since traditional times the said workshop was organized . The resource person called for the same was Prof. Pankaj Deshmukh, who is well known academician in the Vedic mathematics. The students learned the following things from the seminar:

- 1) Calculations carried out mentally (though the methods can also be written down).
- 2) A flexible, mental system for mathematical formulae
- 3) Invention of their own methods as they are not limited to the one 'correct' method.
